

Getting Closer...

Just a quick update to let you folks know how everything is coming along for 2026!

Tee shirts and flags are ordered and I am waiting on the shipments. The tees will be here at HQ any day now but the flags are lagging behind a little bit. That is going to present me some logistical challenges because I have a work trip coming up and will be out of town for a week or so. I am hopeful the flags will arrive in time for me to package and ship by next weekend (3/14). If the flags are not here in time, my efforts will be delayed until I return home around March 23rd. Still enough time to get them to you guys for April 1st, just closer than I prefer. More to follow...

Some of you have pointed out that the location list is still in draft form. That is not anything to be concerned about. I am still collecting a few sample pictures and will get the list finalized in plenty of time for your rides. I do not expect any location changes - it will just be updated sample pictures. I know some of you are eager to plan your entire summer before it stops snowing - go ahead, I don't think anything I change will alter your plans.

Where do you get the location guide? It is available on the official website under "Rider Resources", "Downloads" (or use the button below). That is the only source - we do not mail a copy out so we can keep postage costs down.

Here's an example of one of the views you might enjoy this year :)
